The principal topic among the commercial and financial public just now is the probable bearing of the war in Kurope upon our trade. Western produce will gain, but cotton is already presenting a mournful look/with sinking prices and a poor demand. The New York Bulletin has no doubt that the breaking out of the war would have, at first "a stimulating effect upon the trade of this country and bring us many immediate advantages. It would be a great mistake, however, to suppose that we could be permanently benefited by what injured all European war, would in the long run dintinish the advantages derivable from our foreign customers, which would certainly result from a European war, would in the long run dintinish the advantages derivable from our foreign commerce and deprive us of all we had gained during the earlier special demand for our products." The Journal of Commerce remarks that "the prospect of a great war in the edst has certainly done its part in the improvement of prices. We may conclude that such a war would be materially a benefit to trade and commerce in the United States. It would create a large European demand for American grain and flour and provisions of all kinds, and the effect of this would be to stimulate manufacturers and business in nearly every branch of industry. Ocean freights would partake of the improvement, and if England were dragged by circumstances into the vortex of the war, American commerce, having the preference for the carrying trade, would get a start which it has not enjoyed for nearly twenty years." Our banks resterial quoted exchange at par buying upon New York and for eastern demand, both selling at 14 premium; eastern sight is discount, selling at par. The New York Bulletin, of Saturday, reported: "New York and for eastern demand, both as follows at the places named: Sayannah, buying is, selling la; Charleston, scarce, lag23-16 premium; Cheinant steady, buying par, selling 1-10; New Orleans, commercial, 5-16, bank, 8s; Chicago, 75 premium." The cotton market was a scene of affliction The cotton market was a scene of affliction again yesterday. Liverpool and New York were both lower. Gold in the morning went up to 1077s, and exporters had another apportunity to buy underpromising amplices; the factors showed a rensty disposition to seil, and yielding to the pressure quotations were again lowered. This "let in" some spinners' orders and a thousand bales were sold; as the day went on gold sank to 1071s and eventually to 1063s, which shut out buyers and made everything dull again. The market closed very quiet. Stock at noon this day.

The New York Bulletin, of Saturday, reported spot cotton in light movement at easy rates; in futures the advantages were with the buyers. The extreme dullness at Manchester for the past eleven weeks is assigned by Messrs. Watta & Co. as the strongest feature of the market. The consequent rapid decidine in goods and yarns, they think, is likely to beget not only an early trade demand, but some speculation as soon as buyers are convinced that prices for cutton have about fouched bottom. The question is—where is the bottom? The New York Record, of Saturday, says: "Advices from Manchester to March 31st are to hand, and from them we gather that the lepressed tone of the market still continued, and whatever improvement might have been anticipated from the advance in eastern exchange, was fully counterbalanced by the unfavorable outlook of the sastern difficulty. Sales were few and of small dimensions, merchants still adhering to the policy limiting their transactions strictly to their daily requirements. The New York Chronicle, of Saturday, is not disposed 'to give it up so,' it says: "All the authorities hold that the consumption this year is in excess of the supply, and that the statistical postion is, therefore, strong. Liverpool, however, happens temporarily to get a big stock at a time when threatening war and droophing silver make spinners third. So the down grade in prices begins; weak and needly holders become frightened and throw away their load; then all at once the fear that coton has no value possesses every one, inducting a renearl sermant let seedl, and a general indisposition to buy. How long, it is asked, will this continue? As long as fear blinds men's reason, of course, at cresent, we must all believe with the crowd that if the said and trake fight, Europe will need no clothing; and if silver remains unsettled, India will go unked. By and by some shrewd capitalists will discover the failine; in the syllogism, and then, after they have picked up at their own prices what they BY TELEGRAPH.

THE NEW Domestic Sewing Machine.

WHAT IT IS. t is the most powerful and durable, the lightest-running, and most silent Machine of its kind made. Power.—The application of force directly over the needle insures ample power, and enables it to go through the heaviest work with ease.

Durability.—All the working parts are thoroughly hardened, and so adjusted that lost motion can be readily taken up.

Ease of Action.—The simplicity of its machiners, the few bearings and points of friction, and the absence of all cams and gear-wheels, give it a light, easy action that requires but little motive power Quietness.—There are no cogs to rattle, no cams or points of friction to rub and grind. Every piece of its simple machinery moves in the most perfect unison, and with such ease that makes less noise than any other machine.

And Proprieter of the Abstract of Land Titles in Tunica county, Mississippi. Look to your land titles. I have now complete, a perfect Abstract of Titles of all lands in Tunica county, Miss., as it was before portions of the same were taken for Tate and Quitman counties. This Abstract shows that there are very few perfect titles in Tunica county.
Many of them are utterly defective, and there are scarcely any that are not clouded by tax-titles. In some instances I find that valuable plantations, about the titles of which the holders have entertained no doubt, are held by titles that would avail nothing before a court, either in prosecuting or defending a suit in ejectment. The defects in these titles may generally be cured if they are ascertained at once and the proper remedy applied. I will hipnish abstracts on short notice, charging one dollor for each conveyance noted on the abstract. Payable on delivery. V. B. WADDELL, Austin, Miss.
